

A CASE OF MURDER.

Grand Jury Indicts William Henderson.

IS NOW IN PENITENTIARY.

Other Indictments—G. W. Miller, of Salem, instantly killed, Wednesday Evening—Case of Kerch vs. Sinnock is decided.

CANTON, Sept. 28.—The grand jury, after eight days' session, having examined one hundred and twenty-one witnesses and inquired into thirty-eight cases, filed its report with Judge McCarty late Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-three bills were found and seventeen ignored. The Molar boys, sent over from Massillon on a charge of burglary, were recommended to be sent to the reform farm without the intervention of court. The report, states that under the efficient supervision of Sheriff Zaiser, the jail is in first-class condition, but recommends that some alterations be made in regard to the lighting and ventilation.

The most important indictment is that of William Henderson, for murder in the first degree for killing old man Hartong, near Greentown, several years ago. Henderson is now in the Ohio penitentiary on an eight years' sentence for complicity in the Bender robbery, west of Massillon, several years ago. He will be brought back for arraignment on the November term of court. A second indictment against him is for housebreaking and larceny in Marlboro township.

Other bills are as follows:

Martha Lewis, cutting with intent to wound, and robbery.

John and Charles Vauzhu, burglary and larceny.

Henry C. Clark, forgery.

John Mastor, burglary and larceny.

John Murray and Clarence Fletcher, recommended to reform farm, without intervention of court.

John Mossop, George Johnson and Eliza Johnson, charged with violating local option laws in Lawrence township, were bound over in the sum of $500.

W. A. Wortman, of Canton, was bound over in the sum of $200, for receiving and selling stolen goods.

Judge McCarty has handed down his decision in the case of Kerch vs. Sinnock. Plaintiff sued for money alleged to be due on a furnace furnished to defendant, the latter alleging that the furnace had been furnished to defendant, in return for labor expended in planting several trees on plaintiff's property. Plaintiff, however, averred that, inasmuch as the trees in question had died, the contract did not hold. In his decision Judge McCarty disposed of the matter by allowing defendant sixty days in which to plant other trees.

G. W. Miller, whose home is in Salem, was instantly killed Wednesday evening at the intersection of the Pennsylvania and W. & L. E. railways. Mysterious circumstances are connected with the affair. The only story obtainable at present is that Miller, who was a passenger on the Pennsylvania train, attempted to alight at this place, in preference to continuing on to the station, and was killed by falling under the wheels.

Canton Elks are making arrangements for their fall outing, which will be held at the Casino, Meyer's lake, on October 14.

Will has been filed for probate in the estate of Emile Sondregger, of Tuscarawas township.

Close of the County Fair.

CANTON, Sept. 30.—The fifteenth annual Stark county fair closed at 10:30 Friday evening, and today officials are busy winding up affairs. It is not thought that the fair will be a brilliant financial success, but expenses are expected to be made. The attendance for the entire three days is estimated at 15,000.

In the estate of Margaret Steele, of Tuscarawas township, widower elects to take under will.

A $4,000 POSITION.

Dr. Richardson to go to Washington.

NOTIFIED ON WEDNESDAY.

Appointed Superintendent of the National Asylum, the Largest Institution of the Kind in the Country—Will Leave October 15.

Dr. A. B. Richardson, superintendent of the Massillon state hospital for the insane, has been appointed superintendent of the government hospital for the insane, at Washington. Dr. Richardson Wednesday evening received a telegram from E. A. Hitchcock, secretary of the interior, in whom is vested the appointing power, asking him when he would be prepared to qualify and take charge of the institution. This is all that Dr. Richardson has received on the subject. The official documents are now on the way by mail. Dr. Richardson's reply to the telegram was that he could leave Massillon about October 15. Dr. Richardson was in Columbus when the dispatch reached Massillon Wednesday evening. It was forwarded to him at his hotel in that city, and there he received it upon his return from the Columbus state hospital, where he had spent the afternoon and evening with Superintendent Carpenter. Dr. Richardson lectured before the students of the Starling Medical College Wednesday morning.

A special session of the board of trustees of the Massillon hospital will be held immediately, as it is important that a successor be appointed without delay. The institution's fiscal year ends on November 15, and the new superintendent should be in charge a sufficient length of time previous to then to enable him to familiarize himself with all the needs and conditions of the asylum. There are many who are hopeful of receiving the appointment as Dr. Richardson's successor, but the number of those making open effort is somewhat limited. Dr. Richardson returned from Columbus Thursday morning, and all day long has been busy receiving congratulations.

The Washington institution is probably the largest and most prominent of the kind in the country. The salary of the superintendent is $4,000 a year, and the position is in every respect the most desirable of that character in the United States. This fact accounts for the large number of candidates who were in the field. Leading men of the profession in every part of the United States were after the place. Dr. Richardson's endorsements and personal reputation, together with the President's friendship for him, gave Dr. Richardson something of an advantage over the others. He was recommended by the American Medical Psychological Association, the foremost organization of that nature in America, and bore the endorsement of influential men of every profession.

The Washington institution has two thousand patients. It receives patients from the army, navy and the District of Columbia. Dr. W. W. Godding, who was its superintendent for twenty-two years, died last April, and since that time the institution has been in the charge of one of the physicians who had been Dr. Godding's assistants. The appointment is for life. The superintendent of this asylum is the custodian of all the funds, and on him rests practically the entire responsibility of the institution. His bond is $55,000.

Here is what Mr. Sheldon Westover, 424 West Market street, Tiffin, Ohio, has to say: "My kidneys have given me considerable trouble for several years. I suffered with a severe pain across the small of my back, and for the last few years I have had urinary disorder, the discharges were very frequent and painful; at the same time scant and of a very bad color and odor. My nerves became affected and I could not rest at night. I tried several different kinds of medicine, but nothing did me any good until I got Morrow's Kid-ne-oids. I had taken them a short time when I was relieved, the pain and scalding sensation has all disappeared and all evils have been corrected. Kid-ne-oids are certainly what everyone suffering from kidney disorder should take to get well."

Edward Stuhlreher, of Barberton, was best man, and Philip Ricker and Joseph Schneider ushers. The bride's two little nieces, the Misses Isabel and Florence Huth, acted as flower girls. The bride wore a gown of white tulle silk with pearl trimmings; the bridesmaids white muslin gowns and large white hats. The little flower girls wore white over pink slips. Following the ceremony there was a large reception at the home of the bride.

AFTER THE THIEF.

Police Investigate the Scheer Robbery.

IT WAS BROAD DAYLIGHT.

A Slim Man Enters and Goes Away With Valuables—Two Cold and Tired Children Found in the Street—Hospital Man—Other Police News.

Ferdinand Scheer, of 31 North Mill street, is spending the week in New York, and Mrs. Scheer, at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, was in the rear of their residence attending to her household duties. A slim man, whom the neighbors saw both enter and leave the house, knew all about this. He went into every room but the one where Mrs. Scheer was, and when he left he had two gold watches, two gold rings and a locket containing six pearls. When Mrs. Scheer discovered the loss some hours after the stranger had been seen leaving the house, she notified the police, who are hopeful of finding the thief.

COLD, HUNGRY AND LOST.

Policeman McGuire, at 10 o'clock Thursday night, found a boy and a girl, neither over ten years of age, sitting in front of Bechtel & Taggart's store. Both were in tears. They told the officer that their father had sent them from Dalton on the train instructing them to wait at the W. & L. E. station until he should arrive. Their father, they said, intended to drive down from Dalton with their mother. There was no room in the carriage for them also, so they were sent on the train. They said they had remained in the station as long as it was open, and that their parents had not come. They did not know where to go after the station was closed. The policeman took them to police headquarters, and the mayor got out blankets and provided them with a place to lie down. Hours afterwards their father arrived and they were given into his charge with some sound advice on the subject of caring for children.

IMMENSE INCREASE

Big Demand for Stationary Engines.

BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED.

Large Addition to the Foundry, Which Will Double the Stationary Engine Department's Capacity—Another Where the Warehouse Stood.

Russell & Company have decided upon the erection of two new buildings. One will replace the warehouse destroyed by fire some time ago, though it will not be of the same size as its predecessor and will not be used for the same purpose. Superintendent Heggem stated today that little concerning this building has been settled beyond the fact that it is to be constructed. Not even the dimensions of the structure have been definitely decided upon.

Ground has already been broken for the other building, which is to be an addition of 85x65 feet to the foundry. It will extend from the present foundry building to Wetmore street. Its erection is necessitated by the large increase in the demand for stationary engines of the Russell make, particularly those of extraordinary dimensions. "A few years ago," said Superintendent Heggem today, "we thought an engine of 200 horse power to be a pretty large machine. Nowadays many of our orders are for engines of 1,000 horse power, and at the present time we have an order for one of 2,000 horse power. This engine is for the Ford Glass Company, of Toledo. A balance wheel ten feet in diameter used to be considered large. These days one of eighteen feet is nothing unusual. It is to be provided with better facilities for the manufacture of this large machinery that we have decided to increase our foundry."

The increase in the demand for stationary engines during the past year or so has been wonderful. The force of employees is being added to daily. The addition to the foundry will more than double the capacity of the stationary engine department.

A MODEL WRECK TRAIN.

No Wrecked Cars are Burned on the W. & L. E.

Standing on a specially constructed siding in the Columbia yards is a string of cars that has an important bearing on the daily life of the Toledo division of Ohio's great coal railway. It is the Wheeling & Lake Erie wrecking train. Ready and cleared for service at all times, with the homes of all members of the crew connected with the roundhouse by telephone, ready on receipt of the first intelligence of an accident and a request for assistance to hasten to the scene of trouble, the train and crew may be compared to the fire departments in large cities. J. W. Lamoreaux, the present wreckingmaster, has performed the onerous duties of that position for a year past, and rarely, if ever, has the road been favored with greater expediency in the matter of clearing blocked tracks.

In manning and equipment, with one exception, that of the Cleveland wrecker of the Lake Shore, the outfit is superior to any in northern Ohio. Six cars compose the train. One of them carries the steam derrick, a feature entirely missing in a majority of such outfits. Its superiority to ordinary affairs is evident and has been frequently proved by the W. & L. E. men. With its cars are lifted into the air and shifted about to positions more in harmony with their intended use, with but slight danger of the derrick upsetting. In fact, during Mr. Lamoreaux's management, this has not once happened, a fact that speaks for itself.

In the clearing away of a wreck, a majority of wrecking crews use a small but mighty tool, a match. This applied and the larger part of their work is done. Such wrecking, however, is strictly forbidden on the W. & L. E. No matter how bad the accident, whether the car is derailed only, or whether it is shattered into splinters, fire is a forbidden resort. There is a standing order to the crew to this effect. Officials say that burning a pile of wreckage would leave an ugly scar alongside of the track, and as a result, every car or piece of wreckage is picked up, either by hand or machinery, and stowed away on gaudais, and from thence distributed to points along the road, where its uses are various. "Indeed," said one of the crew, humorously, "we've got to pull the very splinters out of the ground."

No Relief for 20 Years.

I have been troubled for the last twenty years with bronchial affection, and at times have been bedfast. Have tried a great many cough remedies but found no relief until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar. I can honestly recommend Foley's Honey and Tar as a quick relief, reliable, pleasant to take and a sure cure for diseases of the throat and lungs—Minerva Smith, 414 Washington, Ave., Danville, Ill. Rider & Snyder.

There's always hope while there's One Minute Cough Cure. "An attack of pneumonia left my lungs in bad shape and I was near the first stages of consumption. One Minute Cough Cure completely cured me," writes Helen McHenry, Bismark, N. D. Gives instant relief. Rider & Snyder.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY.

Citizens West of Town Send Petitions to the Postmaster.

Three petitions bearing the signatures of one hundred and twenty people have been sent Postmaster Shepley, asking that he use his influence with the authorities to have a free mail delivery service instituted in the country west of the city.

It is claimed that Tuscarawas township residents have been clamoring for mail delivery a longer time than the residents of many of the sections where the system has been established, and where it is less needed. Dr. M. L. Miller is now circulating another petition of a similar sort which will be handed to the postmaster shortly. It is said that a mail route of twenty five miles, touching West, Rockford, East Greenville and other small towns, would benefit 2,500 people.

SHARE OF STARK.

Hospital Employees From this County.

A THIRD OF THE FORCE.

Brown Taggart, a Patient, Makes Another Effort to Get Away—Patients at the Fair—Employees Coming and Going—Other Hospital Notes.

About thirty per cent. of the people employed at the state hospital are residents of Stark county, most of them Massillonians. Under the law Stark county is not entitled to more than ten per cent, so it would seem that Massillon is getting much more than its share of the benefits of the institution, in spite of the oft repeated complaint of the grumblers that the asylum was a bad investment for the town. In addition to this, practically everything that is needed at the hospital is purchased here, and the institution itself, famous throughout the land as the most modern in existence, makes up town business better by bringing here scores of people whose presence is a benefit to someone.

Brown F. Taggart, for the fourth or fifth time in one year, escaped from the institution yesterday. He got away early in the morning. How he succeeded in passing the night watch it getting out of the building is a mystery. The attendant became aware of his absence a half hour after he left, and men were immediately sent out to scour the surrounding country. The authorities knew that he could not be far away, for he was so badly crippled that he could little more than walk. He is the man who jumped from a railway car window while being returned to Massillon after one of his previous journeys into the world. He has been practically helpless with a broken leg for weeks. Taggart seems sane enough at times, but he has his heart set on getting away, and he never loses an opportunity to cross the bounds. It is feared that it will now be necessary to amputate his broken limb, which was healing nicely when he took it into his head to leave last.

If the selection of a successor to Superintendent Richardson lay with the attaches of the institution, Assistant Superintendent Clark would undoubtedly be the unanimous choice. The employees feel that he would be competent, and furthermore they are satisfied that the things under him would continue very much the same as now. They are all very much afraid of the ax. They expect it to be wielded pretty freely if one with whom they are not acquainted is placed in charge. Dr. Clark is one of the most prominent assistant superintendents in the state. He was a conspicuous figure at the convention of assistants at Cleveland recently.

Three of the patients who were allowed to visit the Stark county fair were Dr. Parker, Daniel Opendorf and Harry Mendell. Dr. Parker has pronounced it one of the greatest sights of his life.

Miss Hattie Harshberger has resigned her position in the dining room of the hospital, and has gone to Prospect, O. She has been succeeded by Mrs. Jennie Rogers, of Massillon.

Electrician Frank Edelman, after a visit of two weeks at Mansfield, has resumed his duties at the hospital. Miss Jessie Courtney, of the force of attendants, has returned from Salem. Miss McCarthy is now visiting in Columbus.

Drink Grain-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine, but doctors order it because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich, brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee, and costs about one-fourth as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink, containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

The New York Sun closes as follows a brief summary of Dewey's life—a study worthy of the attention of every American boy and girl, as well as that of every American elder, for it is in itself a lesson in American citizenship. "Dewey, the ordinary boy, Dewey, the ordinary man, became Dewey, the nation's hero, by energy, by grit, by absolute fearlessness and by being ready to seize opportunity when opportunity came."

Admiral Dewey is bravely maintaining his record as a man of deeds, not words. His opinion on the subject of expansion was expressed months ago when he raised the American flag in the Philippines. Any criticism he may have to make concerning the condition of matters there at present is reserved for the ears of the officials of the administration.

As it was at Hamilton that the infamous Vallandigham first appeared and spoke in 1864, it has been pointed out that Hamilton, where the McLean campaign opening of the Ohio Democracy is taking place today, is the proper place for the rally of the Agunadoans of the state who are against American troops now fighting in the Philippines, just as Vallandigham and his aides were against them in the dark hours of the rebellion.

It is now definitely announced that John Jacob Lentz will leave for the Philippines in October in order to discover "facts" regarding the administration's policy and receive any information "which Agunado may wish to offer." Fortified with funds from the exchequer of the Edward Atkinson syndicate and letters from the Philippine junta at Paris, Mr. Lentz will be enabled to penetrate to the mountain fastnesses where the saint of the Philippine Democracy is enshrined. It is to be hoped that John Jacob will not be mistaken for a real American by Agunado and his fellow cut-throats, and murdered in the name of liberty.

Much as citizens of Massillon regret the retirement of Dr. A. B. Richardson from the superintendency of the state hospital, they cannot but feel a certain degree of satisfaction in the fact that he leaves his present position only to accept one which is considered the most desirable of his kind in the country. The high regard in which Dr. Richardson is held, both professionally and officially, is evinced by the preference which has been shown in his recent appointment. Massillon has had opportunities for knowing how well founded is this regard and how thoroughly qualified is Dr. Richardson for the honor which has been conferred upon him.

Charles G. Dawes, comptroller of the currency, discusses in the October Forum "the Present Outlook for Currency Reform." The writer holds that after several years of discussion by the public and by the congressional committees, the currency question in the next session of congress will be considered for the first time during this administration by a House and Senate both controlled by the Republican party, which, in 1896 declared itself for sound governmental money and the gold standard. After carefully reviewing the currency situation, Comptroller Dawes concludes by giving the chief steps in currency reform for which the friends of sound money hope and expect from the next congress.

It is said that the present intention of the navy department is to assign Admiral Dewey to duty as the confidential adviser of the secretary of the navy on naval affairs, an arrangement which could hardly fail to meet with the most hearty public approval. Dewey is better qualified than any officer in the service for this duty, which he could perform without detriment to his services as a member of the Philippine commission. It is probable that the commission will remain in Washington during most, if not all of the coming session of Congress, and in view of the important discussions concerning the Philippine situation which will necessarily take place, Dewey's presence and advice will be invaluable to the administration.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer has discovered that President McKinley purchased the Canton cottage in order to have "a plausible excuse for being in Ohio during this campaign." "President McKinley needs no excuse, plausible or otherwise, for coming to Ohio to vote, for he has done so ever since he could vote at all. If the Democratic nominee for governor had been as loyal and consistent an Ohio Democrat as William McKinley has been a Republican, the disgrace to the Democracy of the state now in the grasp of the former would be less acute. The President has always made it a point to return to Canton on election day. Boss McLean did not cast a vote in Ohio for ten years after he went to Washington to live.

Complaints have been made against the officers of some of the New England mills for hiring women and minors to work nights as well as days. Upon investigation it appears that although the mills in question have been running every week night until 10 o'clock, they are not violating the law which forbids the employment of women and minors more than fifty-eight hours in the week. "The fact that the question has been raised at all," says the American Economist, "presents a situation curiously in contrast with that which existed in former years. There were no violations of the fifty-eight-hour restriction in the days of the Wilson tariff. No complaints were heard then of overworking women, minors or any other class of labor. The trouble in that glacial period was to keep the mills running on half time, to say nothing of over-time."

A sample of the sort of work which is being done by Boss McLean's satellites of the Cincinnati Enquirer in order to secure votes for the Washington candidate for governor of Ohio was shown in the recent attempt to misrepresent the position of the commercial travelers of the state with regard to the Republican administration. What was alleged to be an interview with John C. Fenimore, owner and editor of the commercial travelers organ "The Sample Case" was printed under sensational headlines, Mr. Fenimore being made to say that "the traveling men are up in arms everywhere against the evils they now suffer as a result of the present policy of the national administration." Mr. Fenimore has now stated through the press that the whole spirit of his talk with the Enquirer representative was prevented, that he never made the statement credited to him; that he distinctly told the reporter that the trust matter was not an issue in this state campaign; that no man on either ticket can remedy the evils that may exist; that he is a Republican, and finally and most emphatically, that he will vote for Judge Nash, who is "as clean, square and perfect a public man as ever lived."

Miss Wilkin, the gardener of the Metropolitan Garden Association of London, has changed an ugly waste into an extremely pretty garden at Albion Square, Dalton. The garden, which was opened recently by the Earl of Meath, is the hundredth ground laid out by the Garden Association. It was paid for by the city parochial trustees.

LIFE AT BADEN BADEN.

It Requires a Healthy Bank Account to Remain There Long—Excellence of the Fare—Bathing in Europe a Serious Business.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 15.—We wandered leisurely from Switzerland to Bayreuth, threading our way through the long and string-like duchy of Baden, which looks on the map like a gerrymandered congressional district. It seemed so hot and peaceful, and so utterly unlike the land commonly pictured to us as groaning under a burden of militarism, that we might not have believed that Baden had any soldiers had we not seen them, toiling miserably across-country, looking hot and uncomfortable in their black leather helmets, under a broiling sun. Furthermore, such evidences of militarism as we did see suggested that the people liked it. The men who tended the safety-rates along the track, and who raised and lowered them with long poles, always stood at a "present arms" when the trains rushed by, and the much-uniformed railway employees seemed pervaded with a sense of personal importance that required a soldierly stride, a military salute and an autocratic manner. Sometimes these railway employees were polite and sometimes not. The average of consideration was fully equal to that displayed on American trains, but the incapacity of these persons to explain anything as to the running or connecting of trains, beyond their own particular division, was astounding. The trains were fairly good, the cars being constructed on a modification of the American plan, entrance being effected from both ends. At important stations there were underground passages, and only employees were permitted to cross tracks.

We began to realize, even during those first few days in Baden, that Germany was not a land where everybody deemed himself as good as anybody else, but humbly believed, as Sancho Panza put it, that "We are all as the Lord made us, and oftentimes a great deal worse." The plain toilers took off their hats to those who appeared to be journeying on the shady side of Easy street, and seemed to be better pleased with cold indifference than with reciprocal warmth of greeting. Advice was even offered to assume a haughty manner in dealing with the gentry who frequent hotels and public places, as calculated to secure more comfort and peace of mind for ourselves. We were addressed always in the third person, the formula being something like this: "Will the high-born gentleman and lady hand me their tickets?" I saw a letter addressed to a man servant in a private family living in Baden and the superscription ran: "To the high and well-born servant of gentle people, Mr. —, Baden Baden."

The cost of traveling in Germany averages a little more than it does in southern Europe, although labor is paid next to nothing and everything in the markets is cheap. The pilgrim who arrives during the season is regarded as fair game, and he pays liberally for everything he gets. The Germans, generally speaking, like the English little and the Americans less. Among them the fee system is carried to a point that makes it an abomination. In France, the person who expects and receives a gratuity still accepts it with a polite nothing that is gratifying to the donor. The German asks when he does not receive, scrutinizes the coin carefully, and is insolent to an American who may have given him twenty five pennies for a service for which a German would pay ten.

You pay for every pound of luggage transported, and having paid the fee and received the receipt, you naturally feel that you have done enough. At least so a friend of mine felt at Nuremberg. He had then five minutes to take his train. The luggage man demanded a gratuity of ten pennies. The money was nothing, but my friend, having paid the legal fee, objected to the demand. The German insolently loaded the checked trunk from the truck loaded for the train. He was shoved rather ungenerally by the American, and being a coward and in the wrong, put the trunk back, exclaiming the Yankees in the meantime. As we started for the train he again removed the trunk, and as it was important that it should reach its destination in that particular train, the wrathful American put his pride in his pocket, turned back and paid the fee. Even private hospitality in Germany involves of necessity a fee to all the servants. In Berlin a regular scale of gratuities exists, and the diner-out who neglects the ready German palm discovers sooner or later that he has violated a canon for which he is made to suffer.

It was rather a relief after our hasty trip through Switzerland, to be whisked through the quieter German farming country, green and admirably kept. The fields were so full of women that we wondered what might have become of the men. Most of the hauling was being done by cows, which thus served a double purpose. For lighter work dogs and women were mainly used. Very often a woman and a dog would tug away at the same burden. There were no idlers anywhere. Every inch of land seemed to be in order, even the smallest twigs and branches in the forests being gathered for winter use. The few horses employed were harnessed to carriages, and if it happened to be what they call in New England a "one horse team," there would be a pole alongside the single horse, instead of a pair of shafts, so that the outfit looked as though the second horse had met with an accident, and had been removed in consequence. Everywhere we had opportunity to buy delicious "butterbrod" or ham sandwiches and equally good beer, not to mention sausages and fine soups. The excellence of this simple fare is worthy of imitation in our own country. Wherever we were obliged to depend upon railway "butterbrods" we found them palatable.

It was so frightfully warm when we reached Baden Baden, that we wondered why the place should be so sought when the cooler resorts of Switzerland were temptingly near. The best of the town was found to consist of one handsome park with here and there large hotels and a brook running down the middle. There was a "Kur Garten" where we dined on our first night, while an orchestra played on a band stand near by. In the cool of the evening everybody paraded back and forth, surveying everybody else. It was a queer looking foreign crowd, in which the American and French women easily held first place, as the American and English men did among the members of their sex. Everybody rises early at Baden Baden, goes out for a morning glass of water and to hear the 7 o'clock concert and then returns for coffee and rolls. It is the most charming part of the day and ought not to be missed.

We did not remain long enough to learn much about the curative properties of the water or to take a bath of that sort which is said to effectually boil out any case of rheumatism and keep it out. Bathing is a serious business in Europe and, broadly speaking, is not popular. I recall a protracted interview with my landlady in Marseilles, together with his contractor. I appealed to his enlightenment in the hope of securing a bath tub, and pictured to him the toll of carrying by hand a sufficient amount of water for the daily bath. He looked surprised. "Does it happen every day," he asked, and seemed unconvinced until the contractor rose grandly to the occasion with the remark that English people did really bathe every day. We have down in Marseilles every year a painful period called the "chomage," during which the public water supply is absolutely cut off. The "chomage" lasts about ten days, and meanwhile the canals and reservoirs are cleaned. We asked our cook how people secured enough water for bathing during the dry season. "Well," said she, "where I lived last Madame took her foot-bath immediately before the 'chomage,' and then she took another directly after." At the hotels bathing amounts to an important function. A fellow-voyager who came down to us from Carisbad says that of all his European experiences, the one which remains most vividly in his memory is the bath he procured in the principal hotel of that Austrian resort. There was a notice posted upon his door to the effect that baths were procurable. He rang for one, and the floor servant called a sort of grand chamberlain who assured Monsieur that it was true that baths were to be had. "Monsieur" prepared for his bath and waited.

In the course of twenty minutes the grand chamberlain appeared again, this time with two maids carrying towels. The procession started, followed a very long corridor and descended two flights of stairs. The relator of this incident says that only a fixed determination to be clean enabled him, arrayed in a short bath robe, to go down these stairs and pass innumerable ladies coming up. Finally he reached a harbor of refuge, which appeared to be the ante-room of the real bath room. Here were two other maids, who opened the door of the bath-room, disclosing a large tub, over which still another maid was anxiously bending and testing the water. The entire congregation assembled in the holy of holies, where the bather, with a modest man, extended a desire to be alone. By dint of much persuasion in the sign language they consented, with evident reluctance, to retire to the ante-chamber, and the bath was taken. A few minutes later, when he drew himself together for exit, he found the party awaiting his return, and they all followed him, done up in Turkish toweling and traversing the frequented halls and stairways.

At Baden Baden bathing amounts to a delight, and there is nothing in the way of a bath that cannot be procured for the asking. It requires, however, a healthy bank account to remain long, and to us almost any other German city was more agreeable. We left soon for Wurtemberg, a little kingdom where art and industry have progressed apace. The little towns, as we flew through them, were all models of neatness, and there were new factories and dwellings every where—substantial evidences of the German business development.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

If you read the daily papers you know something of the number of prominent men who die of Bright's disease. There are thousands more you never hear about. It is a particularly common and fatal complaint.

Thousands are afflicted with Bright's disease who are in total ignorance of the fact, so little is it understood. Indigestion or any stomach derangement, inactive liver, etc., burden the kidneys (the great "strainers" of the blood) with a double load. Biliousness follows and the blood becomes poisoned with urea and uric acid, which should be excreted by the kidneys.

Foley's Kidney Cure Makes the Kidneys RIGHT Rheumatic pains in the nerves and joints follow and when this condition becomes settled the kidneys themselves become irritated and pains over the small of the back indicate the sure approach of Bright's disease. Physicians will tell you these are facts.

Foley's Kidney Cure is Used by Physicians of causes tend to bring about these conditions, and the symptoms are many and different. Here are some symptoms which will indicate kidney or bladder trouble of some sort; (it may be gravel, diabetes, Bright's disease, uraemia, nephritis, organic weakness or other ailments.)

SYMPTOMS: Backache, bad digestion, dry mouth, parched or swollen tongue, bad breath, headache, nervousness, voracious appetite, weakness, tired out feeling, paleness or waxiness of complexion, wasting of flesh, dropsical tendency, aching pain over the hips or lumbar, swollen ankles, sediment or deposit in the urine, bloody or milky white or highly colored urine, frequent desire to pass urine, scanty urine, bad odor of perspiration, puffiness under the eyes, etc. One case does not produce all of these signs of disease. Any one symptom will indicate kidney or bladder disorder of some kind.

Foley's Kidney Cure will cure these afflictions, or will prevent them if taken in time. It is guaranteed to do this (and is, so far as we know, the only unconditionally guaranteed remedy for kidney disease.) Ask your druggist about it to-day.

It is pleasant to take.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. — Marching thousands, along whose line of parade millions flocked and cheered in honor of the great hero of Manila Bay, passed in review before the foremost American in this city today.

It was a scene of great patriotism.

NEW YORK'S DEWEY ARCH.

the like of which the world before had never witnessed.

About 8 o'clock this morning Admiral Dewey reached the Battery, having been escorted there by a special committee.

He was then taken to city hall, where he met the mayor and party in the governor's room. Here he was presented with a loving cup.

About 10 a. m. the admiral and the special guests were driven to the foot of Warren street and embarked on the Sandy Hook for Grant's tomb. Luncheon was served to 500 on the boat during the 25-minute run up the river.

About 11 o'clock the parade moved in the following order:

Sousa's band.
Crew of the Olympia.
Admiral Dewey and Mayor Van Wyck in a carriage.
Five captains in the battle of Manila Bay in carriages.
Dewey's personal staff in carriages.
Admiral Sampson in a carriage with Randolph Guggenheimer.

Rear Admiral Howison and staff.
Chairman of the board of aldermen, T. A. Woods, in a carriage with Admiral Philip.

Junior officers of the Olympia in carriages.

Junior officers of the North Atlantic squadron in carriages.

Governors of the states in the order of their admission to the Union. Each governor rode alone in a carriage, with the exception of Governor Roosevelt, who rode on horseback at the head of the New York national guard.

Major General Nelson A. Miles and aides.

Major General Merritt and aides.

Joint committee of the municipal assembly, consisting of 14 members.

Admiral Schley in a carriage with Admiral Miller.

Sailors of the North Atlantic squadron.

Soldiers of the regular army.

Military organizations from different states, including Pennsylvania and Ohio troops.

The Tenth Pennsylvania, which has fought in the Philippines, attracted great enthusiasm.

The fireworks display last night was stupendous. From eight different points in Greater New York fireworks were exhibited, the grandest display being at the Battery. Admiral Dewey witnessed the display at Grant's tomb.

At night, viewed from the roofs of any of the tall buildings down town New York appeared an enchanted city. The great buildings were bright with dazzling light and gorgeous colors. On the rivers were fairy barges in the sky flashing shafts of blue. The water seemed a ribbon of lambent flame.

Brooklyn bridge was a halo of glory from end to end, the feature being an electrical welcome to Dewey. Great searchlights played from Brooklyn over the East river.

The first function of Friday was the call of Mayor Van Wyck and the reception committee, to formally welcome Admiral Dewey to the city. With the mayor and party were the governors of some of the states.

The Sandy Hook proceeded to within a short distance of the Olympia, where she was joined by the policeboat Patrol. The mayor, accompanied by his private secretary, Al Dewey, Hon. Randolph Guggenheimer, president of the council, and Hon. Thomas P. Woods, president of the board of aldermen, was transferred to the Patrol, which, in turn, transferred the party to Admiral Dewey's flagship. Lieutenant Brumby, Dewey's flag officer, met the party at the gangway and escorted them to the afterdeck, where Admiral Dewey resplendent in an admiral's uniform. After the usual formalities, Mayor Van Wyck stepped forward, formally welcomed Dewey and extended to him and his officers and gallant crew the freedom of the city.

The mayor said: "With pleasure and by direction of the city of New York I meet you at her magnificent gateway to extend to you in her name and of her million visitors, leading citizens of 45 states representing almost every hamlet in the nation, a most cordial welcome, congratulating you on being restored to family and home. A loving and grateful nation is gladdened by your safe return from the most remarkable voyage of history, so far-reaching in its results that the clearest mind cannot yet penetrate the distance. It has already sooted the voices of other nations in speaking of ours; changed permanently the map of the world; enlarged the field of American pride and completed the circle of empire in its western course."

"Your courage, skill and wisdom, exhibited in a single naval engagement of a few hours, brought victory to your country's arms, and then you dealt with your country's new relations to the world with the judgment of a trained diplomat. By common consent you have been declared warrior and statesman, one who wears the military uniform until the enemy surrenders and then dons the habit of the diplomat. The greatest reverence awaits you that was ever tendered military or civil hero. Such an outpouring of people was never dreamed of before. Never has the heart of America turned with such perfect accord and trusting confidence to one of her sons as it does to you. I place at your disposal the freedom and unlimited hospitality of the city of New York."

The admiral responded: "Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen—Of course it would be needless for me to attempt to make a speech, but my heart appreciates all that you have said. How it is that you have overrated my work so much I cannot understand. It is beyond anything I can conceive of why there should be such an appraisal of the country. I simply did what any naval captain in the service would have done, I believe."

To this the mayor replied: "Admiral, no tongue can ever utter, or pen write an overestimate of what you did for your country."

Continuing the mayor said: "The city of New York has had made to commemorate this reception to you, the hero of the Spanish-American war, a badge, a facsimile of which they desire I should present to you in commemoration of the event." At the same time handing to Admiral Dewey the gold medal which the city had made for him. Dewey's eyes shone as he received the gift.

"How magnificent, how beautiful, how splendid," he exclaimed. "Oh, that is too beautiful." Here he called his Chinese servant and said to him: "Now put that there, sir," pointing to his breast, "so it won't drop out."

Admiral Dewey inquired after the health of General Butterfield and had a brief chat.

The function ended Admiral Dewey's chief of staff informed the mayor that the admiral would return the call in 15 minutes. The mayor and his party then returned to Sandy Hook, and at the appointed time Dewey, accompanied by his chief of staff and his flag lieutenant, boarded the Sandy Hook, and the 400 persons aboard had a chance to see him at close range. It was impossible to present him personally to all on board, but a number of the distinguished guests were so favored. Meantime there was a great deal of saluting and waving of flags, and for some minutes the din was deafening. It was going toward noon when the admiral returned to his flagship.

Among the invited guests on the Sandy Hook were the governors of a number of states, the justices of the supreme court of the United States, a number of city officials, the members of Admiral Dewey's family, Archbishop Corrigan, Senator Depew, Richard Croker and Seth Low. Among the governors on board were the following: Sweeney of South Carolina, Rollins of New Hampshire, Dyer of Rhode Island, the New York were the two first-class battleships Indiana and Massachusetts. In the rear of these modern engines of war came the Lancaster, the type of the old navy vessels of the Hartford class. Then followed the gunboat Marietta, small by comparison with the Lancaster, with the auxiliary cruiser Scorpion behind.

Abreast steamed the torpedo-boats Porter, Dupont, Ericsson, Winslow and Cushing, and following them came the natty revenue cutters Manning, Algonquin, Gresham, Windom and Onondaga. Next in line were the transports, Sedgwick, McPherson and McLellan and after them came along the hospital ship Missouri.

Then began the civic and maritime aspect of the parade. Flying the flag of the state of New York, and having on board the representatives of the naval militia, came the steamer Monmouth, followed by other boats with members of the naval militia. In single file came the General Slocum and Glen Island, with the members of the general committee of citizens; the Mount Hope, with the legislative branch of the city government; the Warwick, with the heads of the city departments, and the Matteawan, with members of the press.

Then followed, two at a time, 98 graceful, magnificently appointed yachts, led by the Corsair, the flagship of Commodore J. Pierpont Morgan, and Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Erin.

Sir Thomas Lipton and his yacht were given an uproarious ovation.

After the yachts came 100 steamships of the merchant marine, with three Richards of Wyoming, McMillan of Tennessee and Stone of Pennsylvania. It was 1 o'clock when the naval parade got under way.

First came the police boat Patrol, which was the apex of a wedge spreading out to the fireboats New Yorker and Van Wyck, which followed abreast.

The steamer Sandy Hook having on board the mayor and the representatives of the city of New York with their standards flying from the fore and aft masts, steamed alongside the Olympia, the flagship of Admiral Dewey, on the port side.

The gallant admiral flew the flag of his old command, Farragut, presented to him by Commander Baird, when the Washington committee called upon him.

After the Olympia came the armored cruiser New York, the flagship of Rear Admiral Sampson, with her big turrets and guns appearing like a moving fortress as she followed in the wake of the admiral's flagship. The Chicago brought up the rear of the column. Following the New York were the two first-class battleships Indiana and Massachusetts. In the rear of these modern engines of war came the Lancaster, the type of the old navy vessels of the Hartford class. Then followed the gunboat Marietta, small by comparison with the Lancaster, with the auxiliary cruiser Scorpion behind.

After the yachts came 100 steamships of the merchant marine, with three

ADMIRAL DEWEY IN CIVILIAN DRESS. flagships in single file, then five steamers abreast, and the remainder in files of two.

The third and last division of the parade consisted of more than 100 handsomely decorated tugs, yachts, pleasure craft, etc. There were side-wheelers, propellers, electric boats and everything except a sailing vessel.

It was nearly 2 o'clock when the Olympia came abreast of the Battery, and the acclaim of the populace began.

Admiral Dewey stood on the quarter-deck, surrounded by his officers, while the men lined the rails, waving their caps in answer to the cheers of the multitude. So they passed up the river, receiving everywhere a tremendous ovation.

The inspiring scenes and patriotic demonstrations reached a climax when the Olympia gracefully swung round the stake boat St. Mary, which was anchored off the tomb of General Grant, plainly visible on a bluff in Riverside park, and she let go with all her guns and a full general salute in honor of the hero whose ashes reposed nearby. Slowly the cruiser came about, and dropping below the allegorical float "Peace" and "Victory" came to anchor.

The bluffs on both sides of the river were black with people, and their cheering for some minutes was deafening. As the roar died away the members of the Liederkreis and Arion societies, who were aboard the floats, sang patriotic airs in welcome of the admiral.

Meantime the warships, one by one, passed around the stakeboat and anchored below the Olympia till their line reached from off the tomb to Seventy-second street. Torpedoboots, revenue cutters, transports and yachts took a station close in shore, under the bluff at Riverside, this line reaching to Seventy-second street, too. Through the late thus formed the merchant marine and excursion boats marched through in review, the warships meanwhile thundering forth salutes.

After the merchant marine and excursion boats had passed down the river the steam yachts followed.

One of the most delightful features of the day was the hearty way in which the members of the Dewey family enjoyed every detail of the tribute to their great kinsman. Under the guidance of Edward Wilkins Dewey, a nephew of the admiral, who has been a New Yorker for years, the family party left the Waldorf-Astoria, going to Battery park, where they boarded the steamer Sandy Hook. Mayor Van Wyck being in waiting for them.

"This is the grandest celebration I have ever seen," said Charles Dewey, after the parade, "and I am an old man and have traveled much in this country and twice in Europe. I have seen triumphs and celebrations there. Not one of them ever began to approach this in magnificence and beauty. It is the Lord's day. He is with us. The skies are bright and the sun is smiling upon us. Everything contributes to the success of the pageant. We heard a great deal before we came here about how great the triumph would be, but nothing like this stupendous outburst ever entered our minds. The love, the admiration of the American people for the admiral is wonderful."

It is estimated that 2,500,000 people witnessed the naval parade.

Two reconnoitering parties came into collision with the insurgents near Imus and four Americans were wounded.

MANILA, Sept. 30. — General MacArthur's command returned to Angeles, where the Generals MacArthur, Wheaton and Wheeler established their headquarters with 3,000 troops. It is expected they will remain there until a general advance is ordered. There are no troops at Porac.

Nine Americans were wounded in Thursday's fighting, two probably fatally. It was estimated that 50 insurgents were killed or wounded.

The American prisoners were expected here today, unless Thursday's whipping changed Aguinaldo's mind.

A Filipino general, an aide-de-camp and a secretary, it was expected, will accompany them to Manila. The insurgents have been instructed that they may send a representative to confer with Major General Otis. The regiments are resting at Porac.

The Spanish commissioners who recently spent a month at Tarlac arrived at Angeles.

The commissioners said they were confident they will arrange for the liberation of all the Spanish prisoners.

Lieutenant Howland of General Wheaton's staff visited the inner lines of Filipino outposts, presumably to notify them that the Spanish commissioners were coming. He met with a friendly reception.

STATE OF MARKETS.

A Price of Meat Will Not be Advanced.

COAL TO REMAIN THE SAME

Rubber and Leather Goods go Sky-High—Scarcity of Cattle and the Trust Responsible—Some Changes That Have Been Made in Other Things.

Although there has been a general advance in the price of beef throughout the country, particularly in the large cities, the price in Massillon remains unchanged. No change at present, local dealers say, is contemplated. They have talked the matter over informally, and it did not take long to arrive at the decision that a higher price could not be maintained in Massillon for any length of time. The scarcity of cattle is the cause of the rise in beef. In each of the past several years, western ranchmen sold more cattle than they raised, and, in addition to this, last winter heavy losses were sustained by the cold, so that now the demand is greater than the supply.

This scarcity of cattle, as THE INDEPENDENT said it would, is having its effect on the boot and shoe market. Massillon merchants have been notified that all spring goods will be from ten to twenty five per cent. higher in price, and certain boots and shoes, whose styles never change, will be selling for more money before fall is over. The heavy $1 work shoe, whose construction requires much leather, will cost twenty-five cents a pair more when all advances go into effect. The rise in calf skins and cow hides is easily accounted for, but why kangaroos and kids should go up is not known. Neither material is controlled by a trust. A merchant who will have his joke suggests that the fancy goods may have gone up out of sympathy for the others.

The trust is sending rubber goods sky-high. Representatives of Canton dealers visited the city the other day to endeavor to interest local merchants in a plan to regulate the retail price. They did not succeed, the Massillon people telling them that the retail price was regulated by the wholesale; if it went up, so must theirs. Overshoes that last spring cost seventy-five cents retail at eighty-five now, and there has been a corresponding advance in all other lines of rubber goods.

The retail price of Massillon coal will remain the same, despite the rise in the wholesale rate. When the price to dealers was reduced ten cents a ton last year, the retail price was not changed, so that an increase under the present circumstances would not be justifiable.

There have been some big changes in the drug market also, though more drugs have come down in price than have gone up. During the past three weeks cocaine advanced sixty per cent. There are about a half dozen "fends" in Massillon who take cocaine hypodermically or otherwise as regularly as some other people take whisky, and their pocketbooks will suffer most, for they declare they must have it; nothing else will do. They protest against the advance in price and vow they will not pay it, but they all do. Life to them, without cocaine, would not be worth living.

A CINCINNATI FIRE.

Property Loss Over Half a Million.

CUP PRESENTED TO DEWEY

An Immense Crowd Witnesses the Presentation Ceremonies—American Prisoners Surrendered—Democratic State Campaign Opened at Hamilton Today.

[By Associated Press to The Independent.]

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—A mysterious fire started at 1 o'clock this morning in the center of the Big Four freight depot, rapidly spreading from Central avenue to Smith street, and from the south side of the Union Central passenger station to the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern freight depot. An area of six acres was burned over, including the receiving and discharging depots, four warehouses used for storage by the Big Four, eighty empty and twenty loaded cars. The whole fire department was called out, and it was only by the utmost effort that valuable adjoining property was saved. Business at the central passenger station was seriously interrupted by the burning cars, but the tracks are now clear, and trains arrive and depart as usual. The loss is estimated at over half a million dollars.

THE CUP PRESENTED.

Dewey Shares the Honors with His Captains.

New York, Sept. 30.—[By Associated Press]—The weather today is all that the most exacting could ask. Admiral Dewey was escorted to the city hall at 8:40 this morning, where the loving cup, the gift of the city of New York, was presented to him by Mayor Van Wyck. On the platform where the presentation took place, the admiral met many of his officers and former comrades. Dewey embraced Rear Admiral Schley and hugged him, while the crowd cheered wildly for "Dewey and Schley." The admiral patted Captain Coghlan, who was with him at Manila, on the back, and plainly showed his emotion. In an attempt to reply to the presentation speech he said: "It is quite impossible for me to express in words how deeply I am moved by all this, all these honors—one after another—this beautiful cup, the freedom of the city and this great, magnificent reception. I cannot say what I want to, but speaking for myself and the gallant squadron I had the honor to command at Manila, I thank you from the bottom of my heart." He then assembled his captains, and pointing to them said: "There are the men who did it. There are the men who should be thanked, for without them I could do nothing."

AMERICANS SURRENDERED.

Insurgent Commissioners Deliver Them at Angeles.

MANILA, Sept. 30.—[By Associated Press]—The insurgent commissioners in charge of the fourteen Americans to be surrendered, have arrived at Angeles. The prisoners are all enlisted men. A report received from Slocum says that the Tagals have arrested General Virayan, a prominent insurgent officer, on a charge of treason, and that there is much trouble and discord in the rebel camps. Many soldiers have deserted, and in spite of all precautions Europeans held as prisoners are effecting their escape.

WANT TO SURRENDER.

Rebels in Mindanao are Tired of Fighting.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—[By Associated Press]—A dispatch from General Otis to the war department, says that on the 12th inst. he received a communication from General Garcia, commanding all the insurgent forces in eastern Mindanao, expressing a desire to surrender all his troops to the United States authorities. The natives are tired of fighting, and realize that it is only a question of a few months when all organized opposition to the United States will be ended.

CAMPAIGN OPENED.

A Tremendous Demonstration at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, O., Sept. 30.—[By Associated Press]—The Ohio Democratic state campaign opened here this afternoon by a tremendous demonstration. A grand parade of political clubs preceded speaking from four platforms on the court house square. John R. McLean, Democratic candidate for governor, is the principal speaker.

RECORD-BREAKING YEAR.

September the Twelfth Month of Surprising Volume of Business, Says Dun's Review.

New York, Sept. 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade issued today said in part:

September is the twelfth consecutive month in which the volume of business, both at New York and outside New York, has been greater than in the same month of any previous year. In these 12 months payments through the clearinghouses have been $89,000,000,000, against $61,200,000,000 in the 12 months ending with September, 1892, an increase of $28,400,000,000, over 46 per cent. When the tremendous expansion began men called it replenishment of long depleted stocks; then for a time it was called a crazy outburst of speculation, and when demand still expanded some permanent increase of business was recognized as a result of increased population earning better wages. But the demand still grows, now ranging 60 per cent greater than in 1892, while population, according to treasury estimates, is 19 per cent greater, and wages are not over 10 per cent greater. A reconstruction of business and industries, of producing and transporting forces, is in progress throughout the land with results which none can now measure.

Iron consumption instead of 750,000 tons per month in 1892 is now over 1,200,000 tons per month and yet is so far behind the demand for products that the capacity of most works is sold far out into next year. With sales of 20,000 tons at Pittsburg, Bessemer pig rose to $23.50. Chicago coke and southern pig again rose $1 and new turnaces are sold many months ahead before they begin work. Bars are hard to get at any price, the whole output of the Republic company being sold to January and $2.35 is quoted for common at Pittsburg, while at Chicago the great demand for car building fails on works overcrowded. Contracts for 8,000 tons plates have been placed at Pittsburg and at all points the price is rising with astonishing demand. Sheets are also higher, with the demand intensified by renewed efforts for consolidation.

The wool market is active with a general advance averaging half a cent on washed fleece combing and some unwashed; the entire list quoted by Coates Brothers, probably averages about one quarter cent higher. Heavyweight woolsens are well cleaned up, and of spring worsteds many lines are withdrawn, late days being nominally advanced to $1.45 with some fancy worsteds 5 per cent higher.

Wheat exports from Atlantic and Pacific ports have been 4,244,886 bushels for the past week, flour included, against 4,861,022 bushels last year, and in four weeks 12,951,303 bushels, against 15,061,864 bushels last year. The foreign demand has added to sustain prices, which closed 1/8 higher than last week, although western receipts have been 29,129,518 bushels in the past four weeks, against 31,930,573 bushels last year. Corn is unchanged in price and still in large foreign demand, exports in four weeks 12,135,904 bushels, against 8,133,641 bushels last year, with western receipts of 24,433,874 bushels, against 15,319,292 bushels last year.

After that lunch will be served at 510 Wylie avenue. At 2 p. m. a campfire will be held in the chapel of the Pittsburg academy, Ross and Diamond streets.

THERE ARE OTHERS,

Plenty of Them, but so Different. Local Proof is What Massillon People Want.

There are a great many others. Every paper has its share. Statements hard to believe, harder to prove.

Statements from far away places. What people say in Maine. Public expression from California. Ofttimes good endorsements there. But of little service here at home. Massillon people want local proof. The sayings of neighbors, friends and citizens.

Home endorsement counts.

It damps the skeptic, is beyond dispute.

This is the backing that stands behind every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it.

Mrs. E. M. Shufelt, No. 76 Plum St. says: "After I had lagrippe my kidneys troubled me at intervals, causing my back to ache terribly. Cold or wet weather affected me and caused distressing pains across the loins which extended around the sides. In the morning when I awoke I felt depressed and refreshed. When I stood on my feet or walked a long distance or did anything that required me to stoop over, my back would give out and ache, and often a quick flash of pain would dart through the kidneys. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills, getting them at Bultz's drug store. I had no trouble after taking them. I heartily recommend the preparation."

The Secret of a Girl's Beauty

Hon. J. H. FLETCHER, formerly Governor of South Dakota, but now a resident of Salem, Ore., says: "For over two years my daughter had been declining from a strong, healthy, rosy-cheeked girl to a pale, weak and helpless invalid. She was afflicted with terrible headaches, and gradually grew weaker, and more languid, apparently without cause. I tried several doctors, but all without avail. Finally, to please a friend, I bought a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and to our surprise, before it was used up her headaches ceased, the color began to return to her cheeks and lips and her strength began to assert itself. I bought five boxes more, and by the time she had finished them she was completely restored, and to-day she is a robust rosy, healthy girl instead of a pale, tired and sickly one."

—From the Oregon Independent, Salem, Ore.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves.
